

The Daily Courant.

Saturday, February 5. 1704

From the Bruffels Gazette, dated Jan. 25.

Grenoble, January 11.

THE Duke de la Feuillade has made himself Master of all the Duke of Savoy's Territories on this side the Alps, and we have receiv'd the following particulars of the last Action between him and the Forces of that Prince. The Marquess de Sales lying intrench'd with 4000 Men, regular Troops, and almost all the Militia of the Country, in two Places, between Conflans and Montfieres in the Tarantaise, the Duke de la Feuillade march'd with 2000 Men to attack him; he order'd a Detachment to march along the Highway with six Pieces of Cannon, and himself with the rest went towards the Mountain of Colmes, to attack the Enemy in the Rear; but they getting Intelligence of his Design retir'd beyond Montfieres; then the Duke de la Feuillade detach'd Monsieur de la Valliere with six Companies of Grenadiers and 400 other Foot, who oblig'd the Enemy to retire towards the Valley of Aoste by the way of Petit St. Bernard, where 200 of them were taken Prisoners, most of which being Militia, the Duke de la Feuillade set them at Liberty, bidding them return to their respective homes.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Jan. 22.

Geneva, Jan. 11. The Marquess de Sales is retir'd with the Troops he commands into the Valley of Aoste. Mean time the French have not yet been able to render themselves Masters of the Tarantaise and the Maurienne, because the Roads are at present unpassable by reason of the abundance of Snow that is lately fallen in those Quarters; and we have Advice, that the Garrison of Montmeillan has defeated 7 or 8 Companies of the French that were posted about that Place to block it up.

Liege, Jan. 15. The Count de Noyelles our Governour, has had a meeting with General Dopf Governour of Maestricht, at a Place half way between this Town and that; and 'tis generally believ'd they have projected some new Enterprize, the more, because the Troops of the Allies that have their Winter Quarters here, and in several other Places situate on the Maese or near it, hold themselves in a readiness to march according to the Orders given them, and because likewise great Store of Hay is convey'd to Maestricht.

Mean time we hear the French hold themselves upon their Guard, apprehending the Forces of the Allies should force and demolish another part of their Lines; they have reinforc'd the Garrisons of Namur and other Frontier Places with 9 Battallions and 13 Squadrons that are march'd down thither from Germany.

From the Harlem Courant, dated Jan. 26.

Liege, Jan. 22. Two days ago the Count de Noyelles commanded 5 Men out of each Troop and Company of our Garrison to march to the Enemies Lines lately demolish'd, to see whether the French had repair'd them, who are return'd and report, that they have not yet begun to work upon them; But they are canton'd in the Villages about Namur and Maubeuge, to observe the Motions of the Forces of the Allies, in case they should offer to make a new Attempt upon their Lines.

Lingen, Jan. 20. His Prussian Majesty, to promote Learning, has settled a Fund for the Maintenance of 32 Scholars in our Academy; he has likewise augmented the Number of our Professors with a Professor in Philosophy. His Majesty has likewise order'd an Hospital for Orphans to be erected, and has declar'd he will endow it very nobly.

Kinsale, Jan. 25. This Evening sail'd Her Majesty's Ships the Sorlings and Bonadventure, and under their Convoy about 7 Sail of Merchant Ships for Plymouth. This day march'd out of the Barracks of this Town the Lord Charlemont's Regiment for Limerick.

Cowes, Jan. 31. Since my last came into this Road a Sloop of and from Cork, which came from thence under convoy of 2 Men of War, who left her off the Start Point; on her way hither she was chac'd in at the Needles by a French Privateer of about 30 Guns.

Plymouth, Feb. 1. Yesterday sail'd hence to the Eastward 4 Dutch Men of War, and under their Convoy about 60 Dutch Merchant Ships which came lately from Lisbon and St. Ubes, and are bound homeward; with them sail'd one Merchant Ship bound for London from Nevis.

Harwich, Feb. 3. All the Pacquet-Boats are detain'd on the other side by the contrary Wind. Here remains a Mail for Holland. Some light Colliers bound for Newcastle are come in to this Port.

London,
